Enter the Students Fight MRSA contest

Use your creative talents to teach others about the health risk called MRSA – a serious skin infection that has affected schools throughout our region – and compete to win great cash prizes.

The Students Fight MRSA contest is open to students in grades 3 through 12. Entries will be judged in two categories:

- Audio/visual
- Graphic design/written

Check out www.studentsfightmrsa.com for official contest rules, prizes, and judging criteria. The contest runs from October 20 through January 31, 2009.

Spread the word, not the germ.

Students
Fight
MRSA

Students Fight MRSA is a grassroots effort led by Independence Blue Cross, The Health Care Improvement Foundation, and The Franklin Institute to raise awareness about methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA).
